SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years' Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mr. Alry, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell."

I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good.

I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together.

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it."

Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble, such as headache, backache, sideache, sleeplessness, and that everlastingly tired feeling?

If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century.

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.

GREAT ISLAM UPRISING WAS AVERTED BY BRITAIN IN EAST, ASSERTS CREWE

London, England, July 20—Replying to severe denunciations of the Mesopotamia campaign by Lord Wemyss, in introducing his motion in the House of Lords demanding an investigation, the Marquis of Crewe, Lord President of the Council, said that in the critical moments of 1914 it was imperative for Great Britain to reassert her paramount position in the Persian gulf and prevent the declaration of a holy war.

"Our presence there," he continued, "I believe saved the empire from the approach of a great disaster. We had to consider the great Moslem population of Africa also, and if we had not shown our strength Islam as a whole might have been deflected against us."

He referred to the difficulties confronting the Indian Government and said that from December, 1914, to September following there had been no less than seven separate attacks, some of a very formidable character, on India's northwest frontier, and contended that before passing final judgment on the Indian officials it would be necessary to consider the particular system on military organization there.

Lord Crewe then made a statement similar to that of Premier Asquith in the House of Commons.

Lord Cromer, who followed, admitted that the Marquis of Crewe's statement changed the aspect of the debate. He did not desire to stir the members of a rather heated controversy of a few years ago. He thought Kitchener had made a mistake in the military changes he had introduced in India, and while it would be a great exaggeration to say that the misfortune of the Mesopotamia campaign was the outcome of these changes, he could not help thinking that they largely contributed to that misfortune.

David Lloyd-George, Secretary for War, gave a long explanation of the Mesopotamian difficulties, which, he said, had arisen largely through the peculiar returns existing between the government in India and the home authorities. Thus, he stated, while Sir William R. Robertson, chief of the imperial staff, directed the military operations, the Indian Government supplied the forces and the Commander-in-chief in India was responsible for the supplies. Every requisition made on the War Office for aid for the sick and wounded and for transport had been honored, the Secretary asserted.

It is right, of course, that you vote in accordance with your convictions without interference or dictation from any person whatsoever. And on second thought, it is equally right that the other fellow should do the same.

Our esteemed friend, Poo Bah Caranza, has delicately intimated that it would please His Poo Bahship mightily if the United States turned tail and sneaked out of Mexico without Villa. No doubt!

Truth is a jewel, but if we tell too much of it we are liable to get our block knocked off.

This world is full of givers and takers, with everybody wanting to be a taker.

DELAY

Is Certain To Be Fatal—Redmond Warns Government, Relative To Irish Bill—Serious Situation Created By Failure To Make Public Text Of Measure, He Believes.

London, July 20—John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, made public today a memorandum, which he sent to Premier Asquith and David Lloyd George, the Secretary of War, on Tuesday, in which he declared that the delay in making public the text of the Irish bill and the irritation caused by Lord Lansdowne's recent speech had created a very serious situation in Ireland. He adds:

"In my opinion any further delay whatever in producing and proceeding with the bill will make a settlement on the lines laid down in the terms submitted by Mr. Lloyd George quite impossible. When these terms were originally submitted to us we were strongly urged to use all possible dispatch in consulting our supporters in Ireland. It was pressed upon us that the matter was one of extreme urgency; that, from all points of view, it was vitally important that the settlement should be pushed through quickly, and we were told that not only Irish, but great imperial, interests were at stake."

"It is now more than three weeks since we did our part and obtained the assent of our friends in Ireland in the face of very great difficulty, as the proposed terms were far from popular. Since then little or no progress has been made, and for some mysterious reason the matter, which five weeks ago was so urgent, now hangs fire."

"I, therefore, feel it my duty to urge upon the Government that further delay will be fatal, and place on record my conviction that any proposal to depart from the terms agreed upon, especially in respect to the strictly temporary provisional character of all the sections of the bill will compel us to declare that the agreement, on the faith of which we obtained the assent of our supporters in Ireland, has been departed from and is at an end."

A meeting of the Irish party has been summoned for Saturday, when the situation will be taken under consideration.

PARALYSIS PLAGUE IS UNDER CONTROL, SAY U. S. OFFICIALS

Washington, July 20—The United States Public Health Service today announced that danger of a further spread of infantile paralysis has passed.

The health officials said the situation in the most seriously affected territories is now entirely under control. That the epidemic which threw the country into a state of great excitement and caused renewed efforts on the part of authorities to enforce clean-up regulations would subside within a few days, was also announced by the health directors.

The complete eradication of the disease, even in New York, the principal place where it has existed, is looked for within a short time.

LINES DRAWN TIGHTER AS DEATH RATE SOARS

New York, July 20—An increase of one in the number of deaths from infantile paralysis in the last twenty-four hours, as compared with the previous twenty-four hours, was reported today. The number of cases, however, decreased.

The total of new cases reported today were 119, as compared with 142 for the previous twenty-four hours, and the number of deaths 31, as compared with 30, the previous day's record.

Federal and city authorities today increased their watchfulness at ferries and railroad stations and only those children who could show that they have not the disease and have not been exposed to it were allowed to leave the city.

IMPORTERS AT WORK

Washington, July 20—Importers representing themselves to be officers of the United States Public Health Service have been obtaining privileges and in some cases money by appearing in several cities on the pretext of making investigations in connection with the epidemic of infantile paralysis, according to information obtained at the health service's headquarters here today. As a result all officers and physicians have been ordered to wear their olive drab uniform while on duty. There have been several cases of importers in New York City, it is stated, but the fraud is worked chiefly in small towns.

Another week has passed into history, and we love you just as much as ever.

PITY THE EUGENIC CHILD

(Detroit News)

A child is being reared in Denver under eugenic ideas. These rules have been evolved by those in charge:

Never use "baby talk."

Give him on toys.

Don't teach him to believe in Santa Claus.

Give him a cow to play with.

Diet him on cereal, with milk and a tiny bit of sugar and cow's milk.

Teach him to perfect table manners.

Frederick Fish, 18 months old, Denver's ultra-eugenic baby, received a newspaper interview. Baby Fish wore becoming pink rompers.

If the interviewer had said to Frederick, "Is oo a dood boy?" Frederick only would have started blankly. He has never heard "baby talk." His mother doesn't permit it.

"We use the same words in speaking to Frederick as we would in conversing with educated grownups," Mrs. Fish said.

Both eugenicists and eugenists are Mr. and Mrs. Fish. Eugenicist emphasizes the inheritance; a eugenist the environment. Frederick's environment is carefully studied out for him in advance, and Mrs. Fish was a leader of the Denver eugenicists.

This eugenist principle hasn't anything particularly to do with the fact that a cow is Frederick's chief playmate. It just happens that the cow is Frederick's staff of life and has contributed the milk that has given Frederick rosy cheeks, a "lovely" disposition, fat legs and bright blue eyes.

The cow will gently rub its head against the baby's face. When it is lying down, lazily chewing a cud, Frederick rolls over it and otherwise enjoys himself at the cow's expense. Cherry, the cow, is intensely jealous of the little fellow, manifesting displeasure when any one pets the child in its presence or attempts to join in the play.

When Frederick tires of the cow he must discover other means of diverting himself. He can't have the ordinary toys of children. He must show ingenuity and discover his own playthings.

"Mechanical toys keep the child from developing this imagination and constructive ability," Frederick's mother explained. "When Frederick wants to play horse I notice he takes his father's cane or uses a broomstick."

Frederick once used his mother's laundry soap bars for house blocks. She at once bought him more soap.

"A child should never be taught a lie," Mrs. Fish said, elaborating on her statement that Frederick has never been taught to believe in Santa Claus. "Of course he will hear about Santa Claus, but if he asks me where Santa lives I shall feel it my duty to tell him the story of Santa Claus is only a myth."

Freddy has never been spanked. Corporal punishment should not be administered to a child more than 3 years old, according to Mrs. Fish's opinion. After 3 the child should be reasoned with. As she believes a child forms his habits in the first six years of his life, Mrs. Fish is teaching Frederick orderliness and manners at 18 months.

A TIP ON HEALTH

(Commerce and Finance)

In a letter to Robert Grimshaw, of the New York University, William Muldoo, who ranks as one of the foremost remakers of physically broken down men, gives advice that it would be well for every man and woman, boy and girl in America to take to heart. He says:

"I was taught in early manhood not to throw my shoulders back, stick my chest out, draw my stomach in, or hold my chin down like a goat preparing to butt, but to always try and touch some imaginary thing with the crown of my head. If one tries to do that—first understand how to try and then tries—he doesn't have to pay any attention to the rest of his physical being; that effort to touch something above him, not with his forehead, but with the crown of his head, will keep every particle of his body in the position that nature intended it should be. And as a boy I was advised to frequently back up against the wall and make the back of my head, my shoulders, hips, heels, all press against the wall at the same time; and in that way get an idea of what was straight, or, in other words, how crooked I was becoming by drooping."

Both to young and old Mr. Muldoo's "hold your head up" suggestion is inspiring. Try it. The effect physically and mentally is immediate. When the head goes higher the impulse is to deeper breathing. A man finds more elasticity in his limbs. He steps out with more ease. There is more spring to his gait. He isn't a lumbering, shambling creature, but a man alive. With the elevation of the crown of the head there seems to come clearer thinking, a more buoyant feeling and a brighter outlook.

SOME ESCAPES

Had by This Man—Almost Killed in Maysville Several Years Ago.

(Portsmouth Times)

What would you do if you happened to be seated in a restaurant some evening and would casually glance into a mirror and find that a man with whom you were acquainted had a leveled pistol within an inch of your hear? Would you scream for help or just jerk your head to one side in time to allow a bullet to flatten itself against the opposite wall? Well, Virgil Fowler, the Chillicothe street camera man, choose the latter.

At the time Mr. Fowler was at Oskaloosa, Iowa. The fellow who fired the shot happened to be going with the same girl that Mr. Fowler called upon frequently.

This is only one of several experiences he had had at different times.

One day while assisting an electrical engineer in one of the large hospitals at Washington, D. C., he barely escaped death while inspecting an elevator shaft. The engineer was looking down the shaft and Mr. Fowler was holding to his hand. For some reason, he moved out of the opening, just as the elevator brushed past. The edge of the car caught the engineer on the back of the neck and clipped his head off, leaving the nerveless body clinging by one hand to him.

Another time, while living at Salem, Va., he was hanged by the ears. He was a boy then and happened to be running from a flight of steps, which led to a basement. A pair of sliding doors closed upon him, catching his ears upon some pegs that protruded from the sides, and his body was carried off the steps by the inertia. A companion rescued him.

While at Maysville, Ky., several years ago he was riding on one of the street cars and in attempting to alight before the car stopped, he lost his balance and fell to the street. His head was so close to the moving wheels that part of his hair was crushed off.

Over at the Selby Shoe Company several years ago, he fell through an elevator shaft and fractured his skull in three places. He was unconscious for five days.

Down on Second street, in a store now occupied by Charles Barlow, plumber, he was conducting some experiments a few years ago with some chemicals. There was a spontaneous explosion, which partially demolished the structure and threw him clear out of the room in which he was sitting. He escaped with several painful burns.

While working in a soap factory at Salem, Va., he accidentally swallowed some caustic potash for sugar and was in the throes of the deadly poison when discovered. An antidote was administered and he recovered.

At Bethel, Ky., he was accidentally pushed off a platform and alighted upon a board containing several upturned twenty-penny nails.

Despite the many thrilling encounters Mr. Fowler retains his desire to experiment and most anytime one can visit his store and find some new apparatus that will materially assist him in his photographic work.

FREE PLANTERS INVENTED

(American Contractor)

A machine which plants from 10,000 to 15,000 forest tree seedlings a day is being used at the Letchworth Park forest and arboretum, in Wyoming County, N. Y., according to officials of the forest service who are acting as advisers in the work. Previously the planting has been done by hand at the rate of 1,200 to 1,500 trees each day per man.

The machine was designed to set out cabbage and tomato plants, but works equally well with trees. It is about the size of an ordinary mowing machine and is operated by three men and two horses. One man drives the team while the other two handle the seedlings. The machine makes a furrow in which the trees are set at any desired distance, and an automatic device indicates where they should be dropped. Two metal-tired wheels push and roll the dirt firmly down around the roots. This is a very desirable feature, it is said, because the trees are apt to die if this is not well done. Two attachments make it possible to place water and fertilizer at the roots of each seedling. Another attachment marks the line on which the next row of trees is to be planted.

No cost figures are available yet, but officials say that the cost will be much less than when the planting is done by hand. It is stated that the machine can be used on any land which has been cleared and is not too rough to plow and harrow.

A few of our favorite sons, however, appear to have unloaded the bulk of their favoritism.

SISTER: READ MY FREE OFFER!

I am a woman. I know a woman's trials. I know her need of sympathy and help. If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, falling or displacements of pelvic-organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, salivary constriction with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living.

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember, it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Advisor." I will send all in plain wrapper post-paid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address,
